WESTMINSTER WIRINGS.

Two Smallpox Suspects—Fugitive Arrested —Dick Williams Missing.

NEW WESTEINSTER, Nov. 28.—Two men who have been working on Poplar Island, where smallpox patients were living, have been admitted to the new hofpital as suspects. One of them, a Swede, is believed to have contracted the disease.

Rogers, who escaped from the penitentiary on Thursday, was captured on Saturday night in the swamp. He had been staying at an Italian's house at night and taking to the bush in daylight. Eighteen guards surrounded the swamp, Finnigan arresting Rogers as he was about to enter the cabin, when the convict struck him across the head with a pick handle. Those who harbored the fugitive will be prosecuted.

The police have given up hopes of finding the body of Wagner, who is supposed to be drowned.

Oarsman Dick Williams, who took a skiff from Wilson's boat-house on Wednesday, has never returned. He went up the river. Friends are anxious for his safety.

Sale of the North Stud.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—It is stated on good authority that Colonel North, the nitrate king, will shortly retire from the turf and sell his stable of race horses. The colonel will in future devote attention to the breeding of greyhounds. He won the Liverpool cup at Aintree last year, which is the most important and valuable coursing event in the world.

WILHELM'S PITIFUL CASE.

Germany's Unfortunate Ruler Suffers From an Agonizing Ear Malady.

A Siberian Convict Wedded in His Chains Surrounded by Armed Guards.

Parnellites and Nationalists Fight —A Uganda Commissioner Wanted.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—The correspondent of the International Telegram Co., sends from Berlin information gathered by him concerning the Emperor's present indisposition, and its connection with the chronic disease in the Emperor's case. There is little doubt the "cold," from which Emperor William is suffering at present, is internal trouble with his ear. This trouble was supposed to have been allayed. The cold from which Emperor William suffers at present is a renewal of the same trouble. The beneficial results of the Emperor's whaling voyage having passed it has appeared again, however, with increased violence. From a Berlin physician, who has close relations with several members of the Court, these particulars were gathered.

The physician-in-ordinary to His Majesty admits that the Emperor suffers from ear flow. The Emperor, as is customary with victims of this disease, often shows symptoms of great brain irritation, lasting for a few days and then passing away for some time. During these periods of the disease, the Emperor has attacks of dizziness and severe pains on the side of the head nearest the affected ear. The Emperor's physician says that the tympanum of his ear is the seat of a protracted suppuration.

By constant care the court physicians are able to give the discharge from the ear free egress. By this means and occasional treatment to relieve the pains, the physician in question says serious danger to the patient's health is avoided. Nevertheless, the course of treatment is insufficient to prevent all local pains, and periodically the Emperor suffers extremely. At such times the Emperor is nervous and irritable, and in this condition he has made some of the remarkable speeches which evil disposed persons have attributed to excess of wine or aspirations to despotism.

The informant of the correspondent says, however, that while the Emperor's physician has made these admissions, men of higher scientific reputation, who have been called for consultation within the last two years, do not believe in this theory of a mild illness. In such a case any inattention to the discharge or suspension of treatment at a critical time may place the Emperor in the gravest peril. The membrane may at any time thicken over the roof of the tympanum, and a perforation of the membrane might be followed by fatal results. The Emperor is believed by the men opposing the theory of mild illness to be suffering from a tumorous or cancerous affection, and as the former is more common they incline to the belief that the disease is cancerous. This conclusion is partially justified in view of the case of the present Emperor's father, Frederick, who died of cancer in the throat. Concerning the nature of the Emperor's present illness no exact information is obtainable, but apparently he has only one of his periodical attacks, accompanied by the symptoms already described. During such attacks he abstains from work as much as possible and avoids the cold. Otherwise he is able to follow the usual routine.

Wanted, a Commissioner.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—The decision of the Government to establish a protectorate in Uganda and practically oust the British East Africa Company, as far as their administration of the affairs of the colony goes, meets with every expression of approval. The difficulty which the Government has now to surmount is the finding of a suitable commissioner to take charge of affairs. The trouble in this matter lies in the fact that the most able men know too much of East Africa and its climate to accept such a position. Lord Rosebery is now hunting for a man who will be physically and otherwise fit for the position, who has not any special prejudices, and who will be able to take hold of the office and administer its duties impartially. Such a man is apparently difficult to find. Mr. Jephson, who was generally regarded from his knowledge of affairs in Africa to be the most available man for the position, is understood to have formed opinions on the subject which preclude the possibility of his appointment. Sir Charles Euan Smith is spoken of as a possible candidate for the position.

Shillelaghs Were Trumps.

DUBLIN, Nov. 28.—The Nationalists held a meeting at Limerick to-day to celebrate the memory of the Manchester "martyrs." The Anti-Parnellites ignored the object of the meeting and attacked the procession with stones and clubs at a late hour, but were repulsed with many cracked heads and other damages. Mr. Abbey, manager of the Dublin Independent, addressed the meeting, and said in the course of his speech that the union of Irish and English hearts was impossible until the political prisoners were released. Conspicuous Parnellites addressed the meeting, but nothing of importance was said.

Prison Chains Their Wedding Bells.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 28.—Alexander Petrovitch, who was sentenced to death for murdering a cabman, was respited and his sentence commuted to ten years in Siberia. Petrovitch was engaged to be married to a lady named Millick, and by special permission the ceremony was to-day performed in the church of the prison. The bride, in bridal costume, awaited the bridegroom at the altar. He was led into the church arrayed in the costume of a convict, the chains on his ankles clattering over the floor of the church. He was surrounded by wardens, each armed with a drawn sword and revolver. The ceremony was quickly performed and the husband was taken back to prison. The wife attended the wedding breakfast and then commenced her arrangements to follow her husband to Siberia.

SIR JOHN LISTENS.

Much Advice Tendered Him in Regard to the Cabinet.

OTTAWA, Nov. 28.—There is little to add to what was said on Saturday regarding the Cabinet changes. Members of Parliament and party leaders are coming from all parts, giving their advice to Sir John Thompson how to form his ministry. Many are pressing for a general reconstruction and clamoring for new blood and lots of it. The ministers' friends are insisting on no changes. So far Thompson is taking it easy and listening to these representatives. Your correspondent's idea is that there will be very few changes. Friends of Clarke Wallace and Wood of Brockville are here insisting that they be taken into the Ministry.

NANAIMO NOTES.

Unfavorable Weather—Miners and Work— Real Estate Dulness, Etc.

NANAIMO, Nov. 28.—The Nanaimo Rugby football team were somewhat disappointed on Saturday on receiving a telegram from Vancouver stating that owing to the inclemency of the weather the game could not be played. The home team are in hopes of rearranging a date.

The present month has been most remarkable for unfavorable weather. Chief Constable Steward, in his weather report, states that there had been 20 rainy days and five overcast days, leaving so far only two clear days for the month.

Although a good many miners are being daily taken on in the new V.C.Co., mines, still there remains a large number of idle men. Many who are accustomed to find employment in the mines, have been compelled to seek other labor during the summer months, and as so much outdoor work has been stopped, the number applying for employment at the mines has materially increased. However, the remainder may be taken on before long.

Real estate in Nanaimo is very slow at the present time and very little is stirring. Snaps are few as everyone appears to be holding on for better times. For once, even outside property is at a standstill, and the residents of Nanaimo are becoming convinced that it is useless to invest in paper cities. It is generally conceded that more money leaves Nanaimo for other cities than is really circulated here. It is about time the people recognized that it is better to invest their surplus cash in their own city.

The concert given in the Y.M.C.A. rooms on Saturday night was largely attended, and the repeated encores were sufficient evidence that it was appreciated.

The Good Templars' lodge here has challenged Mr. Pawson to give the names of the members, who, he told the Liquor Commission, had come to him and said they were allowed a special dispensation to drink.

The Free Press gives the following authentic account of a duel on Saturday morning: A well known real estate man of this city, formerly of London, England, whose Christian name may or may not be Thomas, and an equally well known life insurance agent hailing from Victoria, met in the Hotel Wilson last evening, and there, over certain glasses of mineral water, entered into an argument regarding the superiority of their respective professions, the upshot of which was a challenge to mortal combat issued by the real estate man, who declared that he had been most grievously insulted by the refusal of the insurance agent to purchase certain lots in Alberni or Southport, which he, a man of unquestionable integrity, formerly of London, England, had declared to be "snaps." The efforts of friends to settle the difficulty peaceably proving ineffectual, arrangements were made for the two to meet on the Forester's grounds at seven o'clock this morning. Pistols were the weapons to be used. Seconds being decided on the party broke up. Later on, at about 2 o'clock this morning, by a peculiar coincidence, the principals met in a down town restaurant, both having gone there to take what they considered might be their last meal on earth. Both men were in the company of their seconds. Silence prevailed for a time, but finally the seconds were strongly impressed with the aphorism, that there is no time like the present, informed the prospective combats that they decided that the duel should come off at once. Pistols of formidable aspect were produced, and the seconds tossed for choice of weapons. Mr. ——, the insulted party offered some slight opposition to such prompt measures, intimating that he had just eaten a hearty meal and was not in a condition to either shoot at anyone or be shot at himself. However, the seconds anxious to fulfil their parts, hurried both men outside and handed them their shooting irons. Immediately the man of realty obtained his, he jumped behind a telephone pole and commenced blazing away at his opponent, without waiting for the unfortunate man to take his stand at the appointed spot. Fortunately the cartridges had been abstracted from the guns previously, so that the murderous intentions of the man behind the post were not consummated, and just at this moment the night watchman appeared on the scene and ordered the duellists to hand in their firearms, and a quarrel that might have ended disastrously was brought to a peaceable conclusion. Mutual apologies and a general shaking of hands ensued, and once more goodwill and charity prevailed.

GOOD CAUSE FOR ALARM.

Fears That the C. P. R. Will Obtain Control of the Intercolonial Railway

And Thereby Effectually Destroy all Chance of Healthy Competition.

Republicans and Tariff Reform---Recovered After Being Lost Eighteen Years.

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 28.—There is a widespread opposition to a proposal to give to the Canadian Pacific Railway the Intercolonial Government railway, which cost $50,000,000. In return the C.P.R. offers to provide in conjunction with the fleet on the Pacific, an Atlantic steamship service as fast as the lines running to New York. The Intercolonial has been managed for twenty years at an annual loss of $100,000. It runs from Point Levis, opposite Quebec, to Halifax, a distance of 1186 miles. Besides this free gift the Canadian Pacific expects an annual subsidy of $500,000 or $700,000 for a steamship service. This project has created widespread alarm in both political parties. President Van Horne of the Canadian Pacific has already testified that federal gifts in money and land awarded to the line from Vancouver across the continent and through Maine to the Atlantic seaboard, are equivalent to many millions of dollars.

If the steamship service was established, in conjunction with the transcontinental road, all healthy competition would be destroyed. What to do with the Intercolonial is, however, a perplexing question. Several members of Parliament favor entrusting its management to an independent commission. Mr. Collingwood Schrieber, chief engineer of Government railways, in his recent evidence before the Civil Service commission, said the road did not pay because political considerations dominated all who were concerned in the undertaking. Opposition to any transfer to the Canadian Pacific will be made as soon as Parliament meets.

American Tariff Reforms.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Nov. 28.—Senator Cullom has returned to this city from Illinois and is now mapping out a part of the Republican programme for the coming session. "I have no idea," said he to-day, "that the Senate will carry out the plans suggested by enthusiastic Democrats of passing the Springer free wool bill, and the several other piece-meal tariff bills which are pending before the finance committee of the Senate. It is for the Democrats to carry out their free trade plans and not for the Republicans. So far as I am personally concerned I want to see them bring forward their bill for a revision of the tariff. They will encounter no dilatory tactics on our part. I am anxious to see the bill pass as soon as possible, so that the country may judge whether wages will go up or down under a free trade policy."

After Many Years.

BATAVIA, O., Nov. 28.—Eighteen years years ago a nurse empoyed by Charles Carline, of Moscow, Ohio, mysteriously disappeared with his motherless daughter. Carline has spent all these years and a fortune in an unavailing search for the child. Last week he received a letter which said that the nurse was dying and repentant. Growing weary of caring for the child, while Carline was in the west, she left it at the poor house in this county and went to Cincinnati. Mr. Carline came here and found the records as stated, and traced the child to Crosstown, Brown County, Ohio, where she was found with a family named Smith, who had adopted her. Carline is wealthy, and the long-lost daughter will be given every advantage.

Irish Eviction Tactics.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—The Government has instructed the Irish police to demand two weeks' notice in cases in which their help will be needed for the protection of sheriffs in evictions. The intention of the Government is believed to be to utilize the time intervening between such notices and the time for evictions in enquiring into the circumstances of the trouble between the landlords and tenants.

The Police Foiled Them.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—More than 1000 of the unemployed assembled this forenoon in Trafalgar Square with the intention of holding a meeting, but the police kept them moving. Louise Michel attempted to speak, but was suppressed. The police cleared the square before any speeches were made.

Mutinous Artillerymen.

DUBLIN, Nov. 28.—The gunners of the 8th battery, Royal Field Artillery, stationed in Limerick, left the barracks to day against orders, got drunk and marched up and down Mulgrave street smashing windows. Six of the men were arrested and will be court-martialed.

Fortune Favors the Daring.

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—On Saturday a bank messenger named Japh, carrying 114,000 marks in bank notes, was attacked in the Dresden Strasse by a man who succeeded in robbing him of the whole sum and then escaped.

Once a Stage Favorite.

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—The reigning Duke of Meiningen of theatrical fame, who has been under treatment for lung trouble, has been ordered to Cannes for the winter.

Satisfactory arrangements respecting wages has been made between the Canadian Pacific Railway and the engineers, firemen, conductors and trainmen on the Ontario, Southeastern and Atlantic divisions. It is to last for three years.

A scheme is on foot to form a Dominion Liberal-Conservative Association, having for its chief object the general welfare of the party and the closer union of all the clubs associated with its cause throughout the various provinces of the confederation. It is proposed to hold a convention on January 11th to inaugurate the movement.

A big row occurred at South Gloucester, Russell county, between the members of the Nolan, Quinn and Findlay families. They were on their way home from a funeral and the row started in Charrette's hotel. One man was shot in the arm. Charrette had to flee for his life, and a blacksmith, who sought to restore peace with a rifle, escaped on horseback. The barroom was wrecked. Warrants for the arrest of the participants were issued. It is said that bad blood had existed between the Nolans and Quinns for years.

McKellar's Cowardly Murderer.

EAGLE PASS, Tex., Nov. 28.—A dispatch from Villa Musquiz, Coahuilia, says the trial of George Villareat, the wealthy stock man, accused of having had David McKellar, the Scotch ranch owner, shot in July last, has been concluded. Villareat hired a man from a distant town to assassinate McKellar. On the night of the murder the hired assassin went to Villareat's house and said, "it is done." Villareat gave him $5000 and promised to give him the balance on the next day. The next morning, however, Villareat was in jail. The murderer then went to work in the silver mines in the neighborhood. While drunk he told a woman of his expectations from Villareat. She reported the matter to the authorities, and thus the facts of the killing came out. The judgment of the court condemns Villareat to 20 years' imprisonment at hard labor, and confiscates his property, which is to pay $4000 to the family of his victim, and $1500 to cover the costs of the prosecution.

Very Nice People.

RAVENNA, O., Nov. 28.—The town is all agog over a scandal involving Mr. L. H. Bean, a merchant, Robert Beatty, son of Postmaster Beatty, and Miss Effie Bean, a niece of merchant Bean. Miss Bean is 16 years old and extremely pretty. Mr. Beatty has a wife and three children, but entertained the liveliest fondness for Miss Effie just the same. Some days ago Mr. Bean discovered that photographs of his niece in a decidedly decollete costume were in circulation. He questioned his niece and she confessed that Beatty had induced her to don the scantiest of bathing attires, while a local photographer caught the outlines of her form very accurately. When Bean heard the story he secured a pistol and hunted up Beatty, at the point of the revolver the latter was compelled to hand over the objectionable pictures. To-day he had Bean arrested and placed under bonds to keep the peace. Now Bean declares he will bring suit against Beatty for slander and defamation of his niece's character.

The Newfoundland Matter.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—Lord Rosebery, British foreign secretary, has announced to the French Government that the present cabinet has adopted the policy of Lord Salisbury with reference to the rights of France in Newfoundland, and completed a commercial treaty between France and Canada, the manuscript of which Sir Charles Tupper has taken with him. It includes a stipulation that Canada shall grant a subsidy for a steamship service between the two countries. The Canadian Government has consulted the Secretary of State for the Colonies regarding the projected commercial treaty between Canada and Mexico, the former allowing free importations from Mexico of raw sugar, cotton and tobacco in exchange for free importations into Mexico of Canadian wheat, flour, cottons, woollens and machinery.

Fraudulent Weighing.

DENVER, Col., Nov. 28.—By means of falsification of weights by employees of the Union Pacific Railway, five firms have for a long time monopolized the grain trade in this state. Grain is cheaper along the Missouri and Burlington and Rock Island lines, than the Union Pacific, yet during August, September and October the Burlington and Missouri received only 310 carloads of grain against 1331 by the Union Pacific. A complaint is being drawn up against Otto A. Canfield, a Union Pacific clerk, charging him with forgery. It is alleged that the grain ring paid him $50 a month to underweigh cars, and through these frauds made $20 to $30 a car.

Welsh Tin Plate.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—The Welsh Tin Plate Workers' Union is discussing measures to prevent black plates, which are merely tinned in America, from being palmed off on the American public as entirely of American manufacture, so as to enable the American who does the tinning to get the protection of a heavy duty. A meeting was called for to-night, when it will probably be resolved not to make any more black plates for tinning in America, and another resolution to be considered is to restrict the output of finished plates to 34 boxes per mill.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.

FOOTBALL.

FOOTBALL IN SAN FRANCISCO.

Football is becoming immensely popular in San Francisco. Not a week passes without an exciting game, and it would seem as if there were a kind of rivalry amongst the lovers and supporters of the different methods of play to obtain the public favor. In an article in the San Francisco Call, of the 24th inst., the different styles of play were referred to and it concedes that the Association game is the one that has the greatest attractions and draws out the most public enthusiasm. The Irish or Gaelic, and the English or Rugby, games have many admirers, but the game that can excite a large body of spectators to the point of enthusiasm in the sport is certainly the Scottish Association game. There is never a moment of apathy in a contest and it bristles with sudden changes and feats of smartness and dexterity that no other game can show. It is going to be the game of football on the Pacific coast without doubt. A fine game was played under Association rules on Thanksgiving day, in Central Park here. The game was between the Scotch Thistles and the Pacific Wanderers. On Columbus day these two teams opposed each other when the Thistles took three goals to 0. Smarting under this defeat the Wanderers tried hard to equalize matters, but suffered a more crushing defeat, the result being, Thistles four goals, Wanderers 0. The Wanderers have some excellent players individually, but the team lacks the fine combination play for which the Scotch have been famous across the Atlantic.

PLOUGHING.

CHALLENGE TO ROSE.

Mr. William Hutchins, of Lake district, is anxious for a ploughing match with Alex. Rose, winner of Saturday's match, for $150 a side. Mr. Hutchins wants it understood, however, that neither contestant is to have any help. They are not to carry a rule to measure the furrows nor use their hands on them, or plough by pegs at each end of the field. He will plough a quarter or half an acre.

At the ploughing match at Cedar Hill on Saturday afternoon, Rose defeated Snider and secured the $300 stakes. The ploughing of Rose was slower and finer than that of Snider. Snider did some very quick work.

THE PLOUGHING MATCH.

TO THE EDITOR:—I saw the result of Saturday's ploughing match in the Colonist. It stated that the ploughing was done under the British Columbia Ploughing Association Rules; if so I think they had better add a little more to their rules. I heard one of the judges say that there was not one point of difference in the two ploughings. Now, sir, if that is the case in measurements which were taken only, if they could have taken into consideration the straightness and the packing of the work, which was one of the principal points in ploughing, if that was done Snider would have taken the money. I know what I am talking about, as I have taken a half score of first prizes myself. Neither ploughman should be allowed to measure the furrows, all must be done by judgment and the eye; and with no helpers and on no account must he change his horses, the same team to be used throughout.

WILLIAM HUTCHINS.

THE RING.

BOXED FOR POINTS.

A more orderly crowd than one has any right to expect at such an exhibition, was present in the Imperial theatre on Saturday night to witness "Prof." Foster's amateur boxing entertainment. The amateur largely exceeded the boxing, and both largely outclassed the entertainment. The quality of the judges and timekeeper rather took the lowness off the management of the affair, but it is a pity such affairs continue to receive patronage in a city like Victoria, and that a really excellent pastime should fall into the hands of clowns. The men-o'-warsmen carried off all the medals. True, a stoker of H.M.S. Warspite, won the featherweight; Hayes, a Warspite bluejacket, the lightweight; Murray, a Warspite bluejacket, the middleweight, and Hunt, a bluejacket of H.M.S. Nymphe, the heavyweight. The police interfered in the last fight, and very appropriately too.

The medals will be presented on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in Bayview saloon.

THE CUE.

POOL AT THE DELMONICO.

The pool sweepstakes will begin at the Delmonico this evening. One hundred balls game. The entries are:—

MONDAY.

7 p.m.—E. Currier, 22 balls start, against J. F. Smith, 14.

11 p.m.—W. Lessing, 18 balls start, against A. Reid, 10.

TUESDAY.

8 p.m.—J. Bates, 18 balls start, against J. R. Howeth, 40.

9:30 p.m.—W. Jones, 26 balls start, against A. Clayton, scratch.

FOOTBALL.

ENDED IN A DRAW.

The Rugby football match between the James Bay Juniors and the Sunflowers Saturday afternoon resulted in a draw. Four points each.

NAVY VS. CIVILIANS.

The Victoria team association defeated the navy team Saturday afternoon by a score of 3 to 0.

CHESS.

SPECIAL CLUB MEETING.

There will be a special general meeting of the Victoria Chess Club in the rooms of the club this evening for the discussion of important business. All members are requested to attend.

A VILLAIN'S WORK.

A Wealthy Scoundrel Brings Ruin and Insanity on a Respectable Family.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Nov. 28.—The facts have come out in a scandal of the most painful character in the village of Moosup. The two families involved are the most prominent and influential in the village, and one of them is practically destroyed, the daughter being disgraced, the mother made insane and the father, a preacher, so overwhelmed with shame and sorrow that he has retired from the ministry. The ruin was caused by the relations between E. E. Salisbury, the wealthiest man in the village, who has an interesting family, and Miss Bertha Kenny, the daughter of Rev. J. W. Kenney, pastor of the Baptist church. Miss Kenny was employed in Salisbury's office as bookkeeper, and until last week there had not been a breath of scandal about their relations. Mrs. Salisbury, one day last week sent one of her children, a little girl, to Mr. Salisbury's office with a message. The child came back with a story that Mrs. Salisbury could not believe. She was, however, alarmed and at once sought Rev. Mr. Kenney, to whom she repeated what she had heard.

Miss Kenny did not come home as usual that day and her parents sent for her. She was found at Danielsville, a neighboring town, and came home with the messenger. When she saw the distress of her parents, she broke down completely and confessed that she was in trouble and that Mr. Salisbury was responsible.

Mrs. Kenny could not bear the shock; at first she seemed stunned, but presently she became violently insane and had to be restrained. A physician was called, but nothing could be done to stop her ravings, which continued unbroken by a moment of sleep for twenty-four hours. On Thursday she was pronounced almost hopelessly insane, and yesterday morning she was sent to an asylum.

The heartbroken father has tendered his resignation as pastor of the church, but the congregation has not as yet taken any action upon it. What will be the result of the exposure in the Salisbury family remains to be seen, but Mr. Salisbury stands deeply disgraced in the eyes of the people of the town in which he had so long maintained an irreproachable character.

Bismarck and Caprivi.

BERLIN, Nov. 27.—The one question which everybody in Berlin asks his neighbor is: "Will Bismarck enter the Reichstag to answer Caprivi's accusation of falsehood?" As already stated, the possibility of the ex-chancellor following such a course is removed. He is not a ready debater, and would cut an especially poor figure if pitted against Caprivi in such a military discussion as would necessarily be involved in his reply to the present Chancellor. Caprivi is perhaps the first military authority in the Empire, and the general opinion is that the Prince will find it more to his taste to deliver his answer in the form of an anonymous broadside in the Hamburger Nachrichten.

Raised from the Dead

Long and Terrible Illness from Blood Poisoning

Completely Cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Mrs. Mary E. O'Fallon, a very intelligent lady of Piqua, Ohio, was poisoned while assisting physicians at an autopsy 5 years ago, and soon terrible ulcers broke out on her head, arms, tongue and throat. Her hair all came out. She weighed but 78 lbs., and saw no prospect of help. At last she began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and at once improved; could soon get out of bed and walk. She says: "I became perfectly cured by and am now a well woman. I weigh 128 lbs., eat well and do the work for a large family. My case seems a wonderful recovery and physicians look at me in astonishment, as almost like one raised from the dead."

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Cubb's Cough Cure

ANTISEPTIC.

Do you know what an ANTISEPTIC is? We will tell you. It is a medicine or application which arrests decay or putrefaction and heals. The application of antiseptic preparations has made it possible for surgeons to do what was never dreamed of, because antiseptics stop all formation of corrupt matter. We do the same in our Cough Cure.

A Cough or other Lung Disease speedily causes decay. The best proof of this is the putrid phlegm which you spit up. Cubb's Cough Cure IMMEDIATELY arrests this decay and the cure follows with surprising rapidity. If you have a COUGH, or your child has whooping cough, ONE DOSE, or at most TWO will make you our friend.

Prof. Tottenham, Victoria, B. C.,

DEAR SIR,—Having rheumatism in my both feet I tried some of your medicine, and have much pleasure in testifying to its efficacy.

I found considerable relief from its use, which I consider the more remarkable as I knew my room to be very damp, but I believe a continued use of your remedy will soon effect a cure.

The ineffectual efforts of a pilot boat to reach an incoming coal steamer bound for Nanaimo were watched with much interest by the numerous promenaders on Dallas road yesterday afternoon. There was a brisk breeze and a breaking sea.

The biggest record in bear killing this season has been made by a 19-year-old boy named Marcus Cox, son of a Silver Creek settler of that name. Cox has killed exactly 14 bears in the last four weeks, and without assistance. The killing has been done in the hills back of Silver Creek, extending in the direction of Mission.

Salvini the Younger.

In referring to the appearance of Alexander Salvini in San Francisco the Chronicle thus discourses: Alexander Salvini made a wise move when he decided to identify himself with a line of showy and spectacular parts. He has the face, the figure, the dash, the impetus, for the brilliant figures of the French, Italian and Spanish colorists. The California's play of last night, "Don Cæsar de Bazan," is founded on the same tale as in the opera of "Maritana. In both Don Cæsar is a leading figure, but the play naturally gives greater scope to an actor than the opera. The story is romantic, graceful, and, from the standpoint of those days, quite possible and probable. Mr. Salvini has had the play trimmed down, made more compact and generally improved. It seems in neater form than when shown us by Edwin Booth many years ago. Mr. Salvini carries the title role with jaunty grace and reads well, though in spots his explosiveness becomes nearly rant. He carried the house, and through him the curtain was raised two and three times on every act. It is rarely so much enthusiasm is displayed as Mr. Salvini called forth last night. Lazarello, the boy, was well played by Maude Dixon, and Judith Berolde was a beautiful if slightly artificial Maritana. Messrs. Ranous and Redmond and Miss De Forest completed an excellent cast. The scenery was good. The performance was well worth waiting for. Salvini comes here on December 12th and 13th, two dates which should be given due prominence by playgoers.

After Dark.

Dion Boucicault's sterling drama "After Dark," which will be the attraction at the Victoria on Wednesday evening, 30th inst., has been deftly set in a modern frame by Mr. Wm. A. Brady. With the old stock companies it was a prime favorite, but fell into neglect under the combination system until Mr. Brady replaced it upon the stage with contemporaneous surroundings. With the almost boundless resources of the stage of to-day at his command, W. A. Brady brightened and improvad the play with a river scene in which the big tank of real water is not lugged in just to show what can be done, but is actually necessary for the development of the plot. a subterranean railroad tunnel where a heroic rescue takes place just in the nick of time to save an insensible man being crushed under the remorseless wheels of an approaching train; a Londonconcert hall crowded with spectators who witness the performence of the great McIntyre and Heath, the most prominent of specialty artists, known from ocean to ocean as the greatest of black-faced comedians; also Dagmar and DeCelle, the Swedish nightingales, who appeared for over one hundred nights on the Casino Roof Garden, New York City.

Mission at the Pro-Cathedral.

The mission at St. Andrew's Roman Catholic church opened at high mass Sunday morning, Father Nicolaye celebrant. After mass the benedictus was chanted by the two missionaries, Father Lindner C.S.S.R., and Father Marion C.S.S.R. Father Lindner preached the opening sermon. The same missionary again preached at vespers. Sunday afternoon the children's or little mission opened under the charge of Father Marion. The children's mission will continue this (Monday) and Tuesday afternoons at 3 o'clock. And in the morning there will be instruction at 11 o'clock. The hours of mass daily during the mission are 5 and 8:30 o'clock, and 7.30 o'clock vespers. Instruction at each service.

THE ALGERINE PIRATES.

Operations of the Pillagers Who Haunted the Mediterranean.

From Harper's Weekly.]

It was the renegade Simon Dansa who taught the Algerians the use of decked vessels in which they could venture far out upon the ocean. But in the Mediterranean the galley was still preferred. This was a narrow vessel, lying very low in the water, with scarcely any rigging, with none of the castle-like, imposing, but awkward structures in which Christian mariners delighted. The guns, ammunition, and provisions were only what were absolutely necessary; one or two cannons, some shot and powder, biscuits enough for fifty days, a few jars of olive oil or of vinegar, and some barrels of water, which served as ballast. Only one cabin in the stern, to which the reis could retire. Two hundred rowers and about a hundred soldiers took their places on the plank seats. If the wind were favorable out to sea, full sail was set; but when land or another vessel came in sight, the sails were instantly furled, and the skill of the rowers came into play. Nothing was to be heard on board but the brief orders of the reis and the keeping time with the baton of the overseer of the galley-slaves, with the musical rhythms of one hundred pairs of oars striking the water at regular intervals. The galley seemed to fly. Before a vessel of war it would flee at full speed; for not battle but pillage was the aim of the captain. Merchant vessels were what he sought; Spanish galleons, Italian tartans, Provencal barks. When the threatened vessel preceived the enemy, it was generally too late to escape. If it tried to flee, a volley of artillery would bring it to a staud, and the well-known cry, "Mena perros!" (Yield, dogs!) would soon ring out. Bold indeed was he who dared resist. In most cases sailors and passengers, paralyzed by terror, did not even attempt to defend themselves. A few moments were given by the captors to overhaul the prize, rapidly to estimate the value of the cargo, transfer the prisoners, and the galley turned its prow towards Algiers. A few salvoes of artillery announced its return; from the masts, dressed with silken streamers, waved the green pennants, strewn with crescent and stars. The cannons, the forts and batteries replied; the good news quickly spread through the town, and the sailors' quarters were quickly filled with a rejoicing crowd. The robbers returning from their raid were hailed as conquerors.

Piracy was, in fact, the fundamental institution of Algiers; it was the one industry, the one trade, the daily bread of the town. The state's very existence depended on the share it deducted from the profits of piracy. Private speculators invested their money in privateering vessels, bought and sold the captured cargoes, and trafficked with special eagerness in human flesh. The chief centre of commercial activity was at the Badistan, now the Place Mahon, where slaves were put up for sale. Those dressed in fine linen, with white hands, gentlemen, well-to-do citizens, or priests, fetched a good price as they would probably be ransomed for large sums. As for common people, who were good for nothing but working slaves, their price varied according to their appearance, strength and age. Once bought the fate of the captives was not so very hard if they could bear patiently the sorrows of exile and servitude. They did not really suffer much until they were embarked as rowers. Chained to their seats, half naked and half starved, ever in terror of the stick or the sword, the most robust pined away. But this rough experience was only gone through once or twice a year. On land many of the slaves were only employed in light domestic work, and spent much of their time loitering about the streets. Even in the bagnes, or convict prisons, which were half barracks, half places of confinement, where the pashas and chief captains kept their prisoners, they sometimes found merry companions, who infected others with their gayety, or large-hearted men, who forgot their own sorrows in an endeavor to lighten the common misery. The religious Redemptorists, the Trinitarians, founded by St. John of Malta, the Fathers of Mercy, the Lazarites, founded by St. Vincent de Paul, brought salvation to some, and to all a certain amount of the consolation of hope.

The golden age of piracy was the latter part of the sixteenth century and the beginning of the seventeenth, when the power of the Spanish navy was broken, and that of France was still of no account. In thirty years the Algerians took twenty thousand merchant vessels, and captured a million slaves, valued at at least £500 each. After this, however, times became harder and grand strokes of luck rarer. In the eighteenth century the decadence began, and in 1830, when the French at last entered Algiers as conquerors, the wet-docks were nearly empty, the convict prisons deserted, and they found but four hundred captives to set free.

No person shall permit or suffer the accumulation, so as to be a nuisance, of any offal, filth, refuse, stagnant water, or other offensive matter or thing upon his premises, or on any vacant lot belonging to him, or for the owner or lessee of which he is the agent.

No person shall place on any land or in or upon any street, road, or highway, any manure or other refuse matter, or any dirt or filth which is or is likely to become, a nuisance.

No person shall convey or cause to be conveyed through any street, road, or highway, any night-soil, swill, or other filth or offensive matter dangerous to health, between the hours of six in the morning and twelve in the evening, or at any time except in a proper covered cart or vehicle, so as to prevent slopping or spilling.

Every tenant or occupier of a building shall dispose of all animal and vegetable refuse from such building or on the premises occupied therewith, either by burning the same or by placing it in a proper covered receptacle, the contents of which he shall cause to be removed at least once every week.

No person shall throw into, or leave in or upon, any street, court, square, road, lane, alley, wharf, public enclosure, vacant lot, pond, or body of water, any dead animal, dirt, sawdust, soot, ashes, cinders, shavings, hair, shreds, manure, fish shells, waste water or filth of any kind, or any refuse, animal, or vegetable matter whatever.

DRAINAGE AND PRIVIES.

The owner, lessee, agent, or person having the care of any ground, yard, vacant lot, or other property where stagnant water or other nuisance exists, abutting on any street through which a common sewer shall have been constructed shall cause the same to be effectually drained into such common sewer.

The owner, lessee, agent, or occupier of any building or premises used as a dwelling house, hotel, restaurant, saloon, shop, store, office, factory, wash-house, or otherwise, shall furnish the same with a sufficient drain under ground to carry off all waste or foul water or liquid filth; and no such drain shall empty or discharge into or upon any street, road, or highway, or any open drain thereon, unless in the opinion of the Mayor and Council the same shall not be detrimental to the public health.

All vaults and privies shall be made tight, so that the contents thereof cannot escape therefrom, and as remote from any dwelling, well, or water tank as practicable.

OVERCROWDING.

No person shall let or occupy, or suffer to be occupied, as a dwelling or lodging, any room which—

(a.) Does not contain at all times at least 384 cubic feet of space for each person occupying the same

(b.) Has not a window made to open in a manner approved by the Medical Health Officer or the Sanitary Inspector; or

(c.) Has not appurtenant to it the use of a water-closet, earth closet or privy, constructed in accordance with the by-laws and regulations of the City.

And every room in which a person passes the night, or is found between midnight and five o'clock in the forenoon, shall be deemed to be occupied as a dwelling or lodging within the meaning of this section.

SLAUGHTER-HOUSES.

No person shall erect, open, or use any slaughter-house within the limits of the City of Victoria.

EVENTION OF THE SPREAD OF DISEASE.

Whenever a person suffering from smallpox, cholera, or any other disease of a malignant character dangerous to the public health, is an inmate of any hotel or boarding house, the keeper, or one of the keepers, of such hotel or boarding-house shall immediately give notice thereof to the Medical Health Officer or the Sanitary Inspector, who shall thereupon take such steps as may be deemed necessary to prevent the spread of such disease.

Every medical practitioner attending or visiting any person who is suffering from smallpox, cholera, or any other disease of a malignant character dangerous to the public health, shall immediately give notice thereof to the Medical Health Officer or the Sanitary Inspector, who shall thereupon take such steps as may be deemed necessary to prevent the spread of such disease.

Any officer of the Corporation may seize, and under the direction of the Medical Health Officer, the Mayor or the Sanitary Inspector, destroy any tainted or unwholesome meat, poultry, fish, or other article of food exposed or offered for sale.

PENALTY.

Every person guilty of an infraction of any of the provisions of this by-law shall, upon conviction thereof, in a summary manner, before the Police Magistrate or any two Justices of the Peace having jurisdiction in the City, forfeit and pay a penalty not exceeding fifty dollars, and costs if ordered; and if such penalty, and costs if ordered, be not paid immediately or within such period as such Police Magistrate or Justices may appoint, the same may be levied by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the offender, or such offender may be imprisoned, with or without hard labor, for any term not exceeding three calendar months, unless such penalty, and costs if ordered, be sooner paid

THE NEW GOVERNMENT.

The personnel of the new Dominion Ministry is as yet left to conjecture, and apparently will be so left for a few days. There is no reason, however, to expect that Sir John Thompson's Cabinet will differ materially from that of Sir John Abbott, which in turn differed very little from its predecessor, except in the change of chiefs. In respect of this latter circumstance the present reconstruction will make less difference than that of last year, since Sir John Thompson has been de facto leader for some months. The replacement of Mr. Chapleau by Mr. Girouard will take away a familiar figure from the political scene. It also deprives the Conservative party in Quebec of an experienced and very efficient campaigner, whose place will not be adequately filled by any French Conservative left in office. The Bleu leadership will most likely prove an interesting question for settlement. Sir Adolphe Caron will now be the senior French minister, and is ambitious to lead, but the majority of his party will hardly regard his promotion with satisfaction. Chapleau has been troublesome and somewhat erratic, yet he secured for the Government a solid following from the western portion of his province which neither Ouimet nor Girouard is likely to keep together. The addition of Mr. Ives to the Cabinet as the representative of the English-speaking population of Quebec will have very little effect either way on the fortunes of the Government.

So far as the reports go there seems to be no reason to expect that the shuffle will affect any province but Quebec. There are rumors, as usual, about Mr. Meredith being called in as a concession to the ultra-Protestants of Ontario. Mr. Meredith himself has said that this is nothing more than rumor, and it is quite reasonable to suppose that it will go no further. The Quebec contingent would rise in rebellion if he were to be given a seat in the Cabinet, the more probably so now that it is stated that his admission would mean a promise of non-interference in the Manitoba school question. Whatever may be the design of the Premier in regard to this matter, he will hardly be prepared to offer his Quebec French followers so direct a rebuff. For the present, at least, the Ontario representation in the Cabinet is likely to remain as it is, and if there is any change Mr. Meredith is not likely to be involved in it.

To all appearance, the principal difficulty in the way of the new Government is this same Manitoba school question. While it is said, and quite correctly, that Sir John Thompson's religion should not be considered an objection to his promotion, the fact that he is a Catholic has a peculiar bearing on this matter. By virtue of his report on the appeal of the Catholic bishops against the Manitoba law he already stands pledged to interference with that law. If he and his colleagues carry out that pledge they will cause dissatisfaction in both Manitoba and Ontario, and there will be an outcry of greater or less extent against Sir John's regime. If the Government, on the other hand, decides upon non-interference, there will be much bitterness aroused amongst both French and English-speaking Catholics. The question is one full of danger to the new Government, the danger being rendered all the greater by the fact that the Premier is of the same religion with the people who consider themselves aggrieved, and it is only in this connection that his religious belief has any bearing on the situation.

WAR OR DISARMAMENT.

Events of the past few weeks have caused much speculation as to the near prospect of war in Europe. Will Germany and France fly at each other's throats for a final settlement of the quarrel which began in 1870? Nobody knows, but there is no hesitation in expressing the opinion that if the two powers should once more go to war Europe will receive a blood-drenching far surpassing any of the past. France is much better prepared for such an event than she was in 1870. Her regular army on a peace footing numbers 28,382 officers, 484,015 men and 140,879 horses, an increase since 1869 of 100,000 men and a proportionate increase in the other constituent elements of her force. This army would, in the event of war, be doubled in a few days by the calling out of the trained reserves, which are practically as efficient troops as the regulars. Again, if more men should be needed, a second reserve could be called out, and if these were not enough, France could still fall back on her "territorial army," or militia. As a final resource she would have her militia reserve, which numbers about 900,000 men. All these together would make an army of something like three millions, well equipped for war in every respect. It would have the great advantage of using the Lebel rifle, the most formidable weapon of its kind. The capabilities of this arm are not left to conjecture, for it has lately been tried in Dahomey in actual war. The reports state that it mowed down whole ranks of men like grass and that the bullets readily penetrated trunks of trees, killing native warriors who had taken shelter behind them. The French artillery would be correspondingly effective, with the use of smokeless powder. Moreover, the French Government has been steadily and energetically perfecting other arrangements thought to be needful in case of war. It has established a very complete system of strategic railways and telegraph lines, and has several entrenched camps of wonderful strength near the German border. It is not surprising that with the knowledge of France's military strength Emperor William and Chancellor Caprivi should have taken alarm and asked the Reichstag to pass a bill providing for a great increase in the German army. As the Chancellor said in introducing the measure, Germany has to think of fighting on two fronts, with France and with Russia. It would need all her own strength and all the assistance she could obtain from Austria and Italy to maintain such a struggle. Defeat would mean greater disaster to Germany now than it did to France in 1870, and therefore her efforts to avert it would be desperate. The whole of Europe may well pray to be spared so sanguinary a conflict as would break forth should the two powers come to blows. One thing is certain, if war does not come soon the countries comprising the two hostile alliances must break down under the terrible military burdens which they are now imposing on themselves. The present strain is too great to be borne long.

The Musical Scale.

How was the musical scale first invented? That query, which has troubled the theorists of all lands, and has had its answer hitherto only in mystifying speculations and unintelligible theories, the Chinese will reply to by a legend most ingenious and most apropos, which they hold, offers a complete explanation of the mystery. In the reign of Hoang-ty, they say, there was once a prince called Lynglun, who was the most beautiful man, and at the same time the most profound musician. He, under the pain of a severe penalty, by the order-loving Emperor, was commanded to arrange and regulate Chinese music on the same principle whereupon Hoang-ty had arranged law and politics throughout the Chinese Empire. Full of thought, Lyng-lun wandered to the land of Sijaung, where the bamboos grow. Having taken one of them, he very soon cut it between two of the knots, and pushing out the pith, blew into the hollow. The bamboo uttered a most beautiful noise to Lynglun's intense surprise. Simultaneously, the river Hoang-ho, which ran boiling by, roared with its waves, and the tone was in unison with the note of the bamboo. 'Behold,' cried Lyng-lun, 'the fundamental sound of nature!' Two magical birds then came and perched themselves upon some trees near and sang one after the other the seven notes of the scale, starting from the tone which had been roared by the Hoang-ho and warbled by the bamboo. Here is a scale, says the Chinese, at once intelligible, inimitable and easily revealed. Lyng-lun had merely to cut out seven more bamboos and tune them to the pitches he had heard and the scale was made. This he did; and thus was the art of music inaugurated and founded by Hoang-ty's court musicians on a firm basis.

Phœnix Lager Beer.

Not an Enemy in the World.

When Narvaez, Duke of Valencia, lay on his death bed, the Archbishop of Granada stood by his side, endeavoring to prepare him for the great change. "I trust that you have pardoned all your enemies, that you also may receive forgiveness." "I have no enemies," said the dying man. "But, your Excellency, a man who has been so long in office as you have——." "I haven't one, I tell you." "Still, it is just possible——" "Not one, I repeat." "Pardon me, your Excellency——" Losing his patience, Narvaez raised himself up with what strength he had left and said to the Archbishop:—"Look here, I have no enemies; I had them all shot, and there's an end of it!"

CRICKET IN AMERICA.

The Game Has Advanced Decidedly in the Last Ten Years.

(Lippincott's Magazine.)

In the last ten years cricket in the United States has advanced decidedly, both in the increase of public interest and in the higher character of "form" shown by cricketers.

Interest in the game is becoming more wide-spread, and Boston and Chicago, at least on their own grounds, have proved themselves worthy foemen of Philadelphia. This last-named city has been the stronghold of cricket for over 30 years, from the days of the old Camden ground of the P. C. C. to the present reign of Manheim. In this city Robert S. Newhall was the first American cricketer to show that it was possible to make runs against a foreign team, even if it did have among the eleven one of the best bowlers the world has ever seen, and the possibility of this was again demonstrated in the recent matches of Lord Hawke's team in Philadelphia.

The reason of Philadelphia's lead in the cricket world over its sister cities is not hard to discover; the clubs here are richer and in consequence the grounds are better and more attractive; and, again, in Philadelphia the development of native talent comes first, while in other cities the importation of foreign talent would seem to exclude any native development. Boston, New York and Chicago all depend for their strength upon Englishmen, while a Philadelphia team is composed entirely of Americans, and young ones at that. Of course the chief interest among the followers of the game in this country has been in the visits of foreign teams here and the two trips of the Gentlemen of Philadelphia to England.

English teams have visited us in 1859, 1868, 1879, 1882, 1885, 1886 and 1891. The Australians have played here in 1878 and 1882, while the Irish gentlemen have paid two visits to this country, the first in 1879 and the second in 1888. Of the different matches played by these teams in Philadelphia, five have been victories for the gentlemen of Philadelphia—namely, the three matches with the gentlemen of Ireland, the first match against Person Thornton's team in 1885, and the first match against Lord Hawke's team in 1891, while one match the memorable one against the Australian team in 1878, ended in a draw.

Perhaps the most remarkable performances in these matches on the Philadelphia side have been the bowling of Charles A. Newhall and Spencer Meade against the English teams of 1868 and 1872; the bowling of E. W. Clark, jr., in 1879 against the English professionals; R. S. Newhall's innings of eight-four against the first Australian team, and his thirty-odd in the English match of 1882; J. B. Thayer, jr.'s forty against the pick of the English professional bowling in 1882, and R. D. Brown's sixty-two not out on that memorable September afternoon last fall when S. M. J. Woods took to "lobs" in desperation.

The most sensational finishes in these matches were in the two matches against the Irish Gentlemen in 1888, the first match being won by seven runs, thanks to Brockie's wonderful fielding at "silly point," and in the second match the last Irish wicket fell on the next to last ball of the last over of the match, as it was within half a minute of the time when stumps were to be drawn.

This match will also always be remembered by cricketers in Philadelphia on account of Capt. Cronin's generosity and sportsmanship in hurrying his men to the wickets so as to finish the match before time was called, he even going so far as to send the last man in without any leg guards, in order to prevent the delay resulting from putting them on.

The gentlemen of Philadelphia have twice visited England, once in 1884 and the second time in 1889, and it was the unanimous opinion that the second team showed a great improvement in form over that displayed by the first team, although it was not as strongly representative of Philadelphia cricket.

Hear, Land o' Cakes, an' Brither Scots.

Next Wednesday is St. Andrew's day. St. Andrew was the patron saint of Scotland away back in the days before the reformation and John Knox and other rude disturbers of the people's spiritual lethargy, but Scots abroad still evince a hankering after the honors due the day, and it is a very poor place indeed where there is not a festive gathering of some kind. The Scots of Victoria are as prosperous, respectable and respected a body as can be found in any community in the world, and they never neglect to do royal honors to the 30th of November. A banquet is found to answer best the purpose of such a "feast of reason and flow soul" as Scots deem most appropriate to the occasion. So, on Wednesday night the clans and the ilks will assemble in the splendid banquet hall of the Driard Hotel and "grow canty ower a drap o' toddy," nibble the alluring curran' bun, prie the inimitable short-bread, and revel in the national dish—"great chieftain o' the puddin' race"—the haggis. Songs, speeches, sentiments, recitations and stories reminiscent of the green braes and straths, the wild moorlands and mountain glens, not to mention the great cities and towns of Scotia, will serve to while away the time most pleasantly. Every Scot should do his best to meet his brother Scots that night.

An At Home.

This evening there will be an "at home" at the residence of Mrs. J. W. Williams, corner of Blanchard and Chatham streets, under the auspices of the Ladies Aid Society of the Pandora Avenue Methodist Church. The charge for admission will be 25 cents.

VICTORIA FALL ASSIZES.

The Shortest Assize Court Ever Held in the Province of British Columbia.

Petit Jurors not Called Upon to Act in any of the Cases—A Light Calendar.

The fall assizes were opened in the Court House this morning at 11. Mr. Justice Crease presided and Mr. Gordon Hunter, crown prosecutor, was present. Two petit jurymen who failed to appear were fined $20 each. The following gentlemen were chosen to form the grand jury: A. B. Gray, foreman; John Braden, J. H. Brownlee, J. A. T. Caton, W. G. Cameron, A. B. Erskine, W. Grimm, Geo. Hargraves, W. T. Johnston, Jno. Teague, Geo. H. Maynard, J. T. McIlmoyl, W. McNish, W. J. Pendray, R. J. Russell and P. Summerfield.

Mr. Justice Crease explained the cases to the grand jury. There were but three on the calendar, the case of Regina vs. Tremblay having been left for the Speedy Trials Court. The others were Regina vs. McLean, larceny. Regina vs. Low Chune, attempting to shoot and aggrevated assault, and Regina vs. Tepoorten, assault.

The grand jury retired at 11:30 and the court was adjourned for an hour.

The Grand Jury returned at 12:30 presented true bills in the cases of Angus McLean, Larceny; and Low Chune, assault and attempting to shoot; and no bill in the case of Regina vs. Tepoorten, assault.

Angus McLean pleaded guilty to the charge of larceny and was committed for four years with hard labor. In passing sentence Mr. Justice Crease remarked that the case was a very distressing one, and it pained him to see so young a man charged with stealing. However, as McLean had been before the court more than once on similar charges he would have to place him out of the way for a few years.

Low Chune also pleaded guilty to the charge of assault, but not to the charge of attempting to shoot. The Crown entered a nolle prosequi in the latter count, and Low Chune was sentenced to two years and ten months for assault.

This concluded the cases and the petit jurors were discharged without having been called upon.

As the grand jurors did not have any further presentment to make, they were also discharged. Justice Crease remarking as he dismissed them that the assize was the shortest ever held in British Columbia. It took just an hour and a half to dispose of everything before the court.

He Was "Held Up."

Harry E. Field of this city was on the train on the Northern Pacific "held up" at Hot Springs on Thursday night, and was relieved of $50 by the masked highwaymen. He arrived here on Saturday night, and has had to tell his adventures over and over again. He says the robbers had the "drop," and all were glad enough to give up everything that was asked for. The work was done quietly and quickly, and there was no escape. Mr. Field says everyone in the car was frightened nearly to death.

A Market a Success.

The Westminster Columbian says of the market in that city: "Westminster's public market has not been running quite a month yet, but already it has been demonstrated beyond dispute to be a success—such a success as the most sanguine could hardly have anticipated in so short a time. So extensively has it been patronized by buyers and sellers that the accommodation has had to be enlarged before the fourth market day." The experience of Victoria is the reverse of that of Westminster. Here the market is a sort of white elephant.

"Incog," a Notable Comedy.

Henry Doblin, representing "Incog." is in the city and is at the Driard. "Incog" comes to the Victoria theatre on Friday night. It is a high-class comedy, and is one of the successes of the past two seasons. It was written by Mrs. Pacheco, wife of a former governor of California. It is in the hands of a competent company, headed by Charles Dickson, the comedian, and should fill the Victoria theatre on the night of its appearance.

Young Ladies' Bazaar.

The young ladies of the Reformed Episcopal church are getting ready to completely transform Philharmonic Hall. They have the hall engaged for Thursday evening, when they will hold a grand bazaar under the auspices of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Dewdney. They are hard at work and intend to fill their booths with fancy work of every description. In the evening they will give a concert.

For Several Months.

From seven in the morning till closing time every day in the week, Lange & Co., have been selling their splendid stock of jewelry, etc., away below auction prices, and those who purchase from them are not obliged to compete with others for bargains, and can take their own time selecting what they want. All goods purchased guaranteed. No one will regret buying from them. LANGE & Co., 93 Government street. *

Too Much Oats.

Sam Kee's untamable Arabian blood horse, which supplies the motive power for his vegetable cart, ran away at noon to-day. It ran down Douglas street, and, turning into Herald street, ran through Chinatown. The rig was finally stopped. No damage to speak of was done.

In Forty Feet of Water.

The dredger Mud Lark, at work at the outer wharf, has lost some of her gear overboard in 40 feet of water. Diver T. Harmon has been engaged to go down and find it, and will make an attempt to-day. No difficulty is expected in recovering it.

A Fire Enquiry.

The alleged incendiary fires will be enquired into by Police Magistrate Macrae on Wednesday afternoon. Summonses are being served upon witnesses.

Batallion Drill.

There will be a batallion drill of the B. C. B. G. A., at the Market hall on Friday evening. The men will attend in field day order: viz. helmets and leggings.

Odd Fellows Social.

The members of Canton Militant Victoria, No. 1. P. M., are arranging for a social to be given on Wednesday evening, December 7th for Odd Fellows and their families.

High Mass of Requiem.

High mass of requiem was celebrated this morning at St. Andrew's Roman Catholic church for the repose of the soul of the late Archbishop Seghers. To-day is the anniversary of his death.

New Lodge K. of P.

The Grand lodge officers of the Knights of Pythias went up to Duncan's Station this morning to institute a new lodge of the order. The ceremonies will take place this afternoon and this evening.

The Solemnity Transferred.

Owing to the week being devoted to a mission at St. Andrew's Catholic cathedral, the solemnity of the feast of St. Andrew, the patron saint of the cathedral, has been transferred to Sunday next.

Soldiers Attend Church.

The three batteries B. C. B. G. A., attended St. John's church yesterday morning. There were very few absentees; the parade was nearly a full one. Canon Paddon conducted the services at the church.

Wreck of the Ericsson.

Capt. Bennett, of the wrecked ship Ericsson, will leave for San Francisco to-morrow. The owners of the ship have not sent any orders for the disposal of the wreckage, so Captain Bennett is going south for instructions.

Changed Hands.

The Nelson Island granite quarry has changed hands. J. E. Prevost has purchased the interest of E. S. Thain. Arrangements have been made for the Wilmington to call fortnightly for consignments of stone to American and provincial markets.

Had a Rough Time.

W. H. Mawdsley and Fred Sturdy had a rough time of it Sunday morning. They got off the Islander at Point Comfort at 5 o'clock. The sea was running high and threatened to swamp them. The boat was filled with water. They expected to go down every minute but escaped by a miracle.

Only Two Days Left.

Those taxpayers who wish to vote at the coming election and at the same time receive the benefit of a discount off their taxes must pay up by Thursday of this week. Those who have not paid by that time will not find their names on the voters lists and they will have to pay the full amount of their taxes.

A Sprained Ankle.

Mr. F. S Hussey, superintendent of the provincial police, slipped from the sidewalk in front of the postoffice last evening and sprained his ankle. He was leaving the sidewalk to cross the road when his foot slipped into the open drain. He was taken to the Jubilee hospital to-day to have the injured limb attended to.

Masquerade Ball.

Prof. J. Oliver will give his fourth annual masquerade ball on Wednesday evening, November 30th. This will be one of the social events of the season, and those attending are assured of a most enjoyable evening. Four handsome prizes will be given away. Admission, gentlemen maskers, 50cts; lady maskers free; spectaters, gentlemen 50cts, ladies 25cts. *

Campbell-Bellmore.

At Vancouver on Thursday evening at the residence of Mr. J. D. Carscaden, Rev. E. D. McLaren united in the bonds of wedlock Mr. Daniel Campbell, the well-known merchant tailor of Victoria, and Miss Rose Bellmore, of St. Thomas, Ont., who arrived from the east by the Pacific express yesterday, reaching this city at 6 p.m. Mr. and Mrs. Campbell arrived from Vancouver on Saturday evening.

Last Trip of the Puebla.

The steamer City of Puebla, Captain Debney, arrived from San Francisco yesterday afternoon for the last time this season. When she returns south on the 4th of December she will be laid up for the winter. The trip up was a very pleasant one until the Cape was reached, when she had to run against a strong head wind which was blowing down the straits. She brought very few passengers and only 40 tons of freight.

A Small Police Court Batch.

Jas. Russell stole $5 worth of carpenter's tools from Fred A. Post and was sentenced to two months' hard labor, by Police Magistrate Macrae this morning. Thomas Matheson escaped luckily. He was charged with stealing a $25 silver watch from James Johnson. The evidence was not sufficient to convict. Albert Greening, drunk, was liberated. The Driard case was remanded till Saturday, and the Chan Cheun dog biting case was adjourned till Saturday.

Labor Candidates.

In Vancouver the labor organizations and single tax advocates will place two candidates in the field in each ward of the city for election to the council. The principal feature at the last meeting of the Trades and Labor council says the World, was the discussion and adoption of a platform that every candidate endorsed by the Trades and Labor council will be asked to sign. One plank in this will be that all public improvements are to be carried on directly by the city by day work. There are some other matters relating to the collection of taxes, etc., but the principal bit of timber will be the clause absolutely endorsing the Single Tax.

PERSONAL.

Visitors and Passengers to and from the City and Province.

R. A. Anderson, of Vancouver, is in town.

S. C. Maclure is back from the Mainland.

Mrs. M. Moss has returned from California.

Drink Victoria Lager.

Good Riddance to Bad Rubbish.

His grace Marmaduke Wood, the wooden duke, has left Victoria and is now safe from the writs of creditors. He is in Seattle to-day, but inside of a week he will grace San Francisco with his august presence. His departure from Victoria was kept secret lest he should be tendered an ovation with considerable police assistance. He was to have gone last Friday, but delayed a day and then had to stay two. As far as known his hotel bill was the only one paid and Woods quits about $2000 ahead of British Columbia. This estimate was proudly furnished by a boon companion. His grace did not leave here penniless by any means. Several days ago he got a "we-mittance" from "home" and had a good $200 in his pockets when he took the City of Kingston last night. How Wood will fare in San Francisno is hard to even guess, but it is hoped the newspapers will help expose one of the most impertinent, bare-faced petty swindlers ever tolerated on the coast. The 'Frisco police will probably enter Wood in the bilk book at an early date.

Seamen's Troubles.

Austin James, second mate of the bark River Ganges, summoned Captain Budge to appear in the Provincial Court this morning. The case was called and remanded until Saturday. The charge is that during the trip from South America to Victoria Captain Budge ill-treated James, threatened to put daylight through his head and did not supply him with proper food. On this account James prays that his contract for a voyage to the United Kingdom be rescinded.

Open Lodge.

Perseverance Lodge, No. 1, intend having an open lodge on Tuesday evening at 7:30 in the Temperance Hall, Pandora avenue. A good programme has been provided and refreshments will be served. Rev. Mr. Coombes, of the Calvary Baptist Church, will deliver a short address during the evening. Mrs. Jenkins, G.S.J.T., will also address the meeting. Admission free. All are invited.

Hughes & O'Brien's teas and coffees are choice and cheap.

Phœnix Lager Beer.

The Bonds Sold.

The bonds of the Victoria and Sidney Railway Company were sold in New York a few days ago through the agency of Col. A. J. Kane. The bonds were guaranteed by the City of Victoria and the Province. The price obtained, it is understood, was 95, an advance on offers from London.

Dickens, Scott, Thackeray, Gibbon, and other standard sets of books reduced 20 per cent. J. Johnston & Co.

Important.

Every morning we will sell at private sale any article in our establishment at actual cost. This is for the benefit of ladies and gentlemen who cannot make it convenient to attend the auction. Jackson & Mylius, 63 Government street.

A Young Man's Death.

Frederick John Huxtable, fourth son of Mr. W. H. Huxtable, died this morning, aged 20 years. Deceased has been ill for about a year with kidney complaint. He was a native of Victoria and a very promising young man.

The Fur Famed Halcyon Sold.

The schooner Halcyon was sold this morning by E. W. McLean to E. B. Marvin & Co. and her occupation in future will be that of a sealer. The price paid was $5200. This makes the deal an excellent one for the buyers, when her cost, $22,000, is considered. Everybody knows the past occupation of the schooner, and the question:—Why was she sold? will be asked. This is explained by the fact that she got so notorious that it was unsafe to do anything with her. Capt. J. G. Cox, of the firm of Marvin & Co, went to Esquimalt this afternoon and brought the schooner around into Rock Bay. She will be hauled out on the ways to-morrow, and will be refitted immediately. She is a magnificent vessel, and is admirably adapted for her new work. This purchase greatly strengthens the already splendid sealing fleet of the new owners. Their other schooners are the Triumph, E. B. Marvin, Carlotta Cox and Sapphire.

Theatre-goers, Attention!

For the convenience of patrons of the Victoria Theatre to-night and to-morrow evening, the Tramway Company have arranged to hold cars for all parts of the city at spots easily accessible from the theatre as follows: James Bay, corner of Fort and Government; Work Estate, corner of Yates and Douglas; Jubilee Hospital, corner of Douglas and Fort; Esquimalt, opposite the postoffice. Ample accommodation is assured, as the cars are the large ones.

Wages in Hungary.

The daily wage of a regular hand at the Hungarian iron mines is only 32 to 40 cents, and of a temporary hand 28 cents. Boys are paid from 12 cents to 24 cents a day, and women from 12 cents to 20 cents. In the coal mines the wages are rather higher; men are paid from 48 cents to 60 cents a day, boys 20 cents to 28 cents, and women 18 cents to 20 cents. The wages in the iron mines are lower than those in coal mines, because the iron mines are all situated in populous districts where living is cheap. In all small mines tools and blasting materials are given free to the men, but in large mines the men have to pay the cost price of the blasting materials and light. The low rate of wages is astonishing to the American mind, but when the cost of living is taken into account, the lot of the Hungarian miners is by no means as bad as appears at first sight. For instance, a very comfortable house can be obtained for $2 a month. Three rooms such as could be obtained in a tenement house here at $8 to $10 a month, cost 60 cents a month there, and an attic can be obtained there at 20 cents a month. Wood and coal can be had on easy terms, and in many cases gratuitously. Food and supplies are exceedingly cheap, and many mine owners sell their hands food at next to cost price. In many of the State mines a deduction of 4 per cent. is made for a music fund. All Hungarians are born musicians, and Hungary is the home of true and unaffected music.—Black Diamond.

CARELESS HOUSE OWNERS.

Men Who Will Not Take the Pains to Read Their Insurance Policies.

A gentleman who had been out of the city for several months called at the office of the fire insurance company which had issued his policy, the other day, to see about a renewal. The clerk to whom he applied happened to know him, and was aware that he had been away for a time.

"I passed your house the other day," he said to the gentleman, "and I noticed that it was all shut up."

"Yes," replied the other carelessly; "I hired a cottage at the shore for the summer and took the servants along."

"Who took charge of your city house?" asked the clerk.

"Why, nobody. I simply had the doors and windows securely fastened and went away."

"Let me see your policy," said the clerk.

After examining it he handed it back to the man.

"Did you ever take the trouble to read it?" he asked.

"No, I can't say that I did."

"Well, then, just let me show you an interesting clause."

The clerk pointed to the following:

This entire policy, unless otherwise provided by agreement, indorsed hereon and added hereto, shall be void * * * if a building herein described, whether intended for occupancy by owner or tenant, be or become vacant or unoccupied, and so remain for ten days.

"That means," he added, "that if your house had burned during your absence you would have lost your insurance."

"Great Scott!" exclaimed the man angrily, "what must a man do, stay at home?"

"No, that isn't necessary; but he must either have somebody guard his property or else make some arrangement with us. There is good sound reason for that condition, which appears in most policies. If the house is deserted and a small fire is accidentally started the house is likely to burn down, whereas, if somebody is in the house, the chances are that the fire will be extinguished before it has done much damage. When people go away for a few weeks only we usually allow them to leave their houses untenanted, but they must notify us and get the permission in writing, or we won't be responsible. When people go away for months the same privilege is rarely extended."

Probably very few New Yorkers know of the clause quoted above, and yet it appears in most fire insurance policies. Nearly every company will allow a policy holder a certain amount of freedom from the restraint, but a good many circumstances are considered before a company will make itself liable for damage to an untenanted house. If the house is in a good neighborhood, or has burglar alarm wires, or is located in a very public thoroughfare, the company considers the risk less than if the neighborhood is poor or deserted and there is little chance of fire being detected until it has gained great strength. There are probably hundreds of tenantless houses in New York during every summer, and their owners have no idea that their insurance would be forfeited in case of fire during the time they are vacant.

The same rule applies to country houses, and yet many of the finest and costliest summer houses of New Yorkers are simply fastened up and left vacant during the winter. Of course special arrangements can always be made whereby the insurance will not be forfeited for nontenancy.—New York Sun.

Islands of the British Empire.

The British empire is the largest owner of island territory. To begin with, Great Britain and Ireland comprise, in addition to the Isle of Man and the Channel islands, more than 5,000 islands and islets, by far the greater number being uninhabited and in very many instances mere rocks. In the central Mediterranean Great Britain possesses Malta, with Comino and Gozo; in the southern Atlantic ocean, Ascension, the group of which Tristan d'Acuula is the chief, Inaccessible island, the Falkland and Nightingale islands, South Georgia and St. Helena; on the west coast of Africa, Lagos; in the Indian ocean, Socotra, Mauritius and the Seychelle islands.

In the east are many, including Cyprus, the Andaman and Nicobar islands, Ceylon and the Maldive and Laccadive groups. In Canada Great Britain owns Prince Edward island, Vancouver, the Queen Charlotte islands, Newfoundland, Cape Breton and Anticosti. The countless islands, islets and isolated rocks included in the West Indies, with the islands in Oceania, and, not least interesting, the group of 225, known as the Fiji islands, belong to Great Britain. —Brooklyn Eagle.

Tennyson's Last Days.

"It is sad enough to contemplate fallen greatness in any form, but the decline of a great intellect is perhaps the saddest," says an English correspondent, writing of Tennyson's decay just before his death. "It may be accepted that the hour of intellectual labor is over for Lord Tennyson. It is now his turn to lie still and be taken care of like a child. When the sun shines he is carried out and laid in a bright spot upon a carpet, enveloped in rugs and shawls. Here he sleeps and reads. The object of all his interest is the heir, his baby grandson. Where this small great personage is concerned nothing can be done without consulting him. He must inspect and choose feeding bottles and hoods, and superintend all his daughter-in-law's maternal cares. Lord Tennyson, in fact, seems to have reached a time of life when it is a relief to be taken out of one's self, and when placid unstriving meditation and simple family interests are the limits of possibility as they are the alleviators of pain. It is sad, but inevitable."

Facts About Ireland.

Consumption is believed to be more prevalent in Ireland than in either England or Wales. Four times more Irishmen reside in the United States than Englishmen. It is more difficult to believe the statement that 60,000 people in the Emerald Isle speak Irish only, or another, that there are 40,000 mud cabins in that country consisting of but a single room. Yet this is the country in which we are told suicide is less prevalent than in any other—which speaks volumes for Pat's light heartedness.—Chambers' Journal.

Modern Damons and Pythiases.

The senate is a great place for chums. Reck and Allison were such a pair, as were Don Cameron and Butler, Vest and Plumb, Edmunds and Thurman. Another notable case of congressional Damon and Pythias was that of Tom Reed and Bourke Cockran in the house.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

New York State's Big Vote.

When Abraham Lincoln was elected president of the United States in 1860 he received 1,805,013 votes in the thirty-two states which then constituted the Union. In the presidential election of 1888 the total vote of New York state was 1,330,109.—New York Sun.

Fish with Lungs.

There are few more interesting inhabitants of the earth in the eyes of scientists than the ceratodus, a rare fish, now found only in two rivers in Australia, although in long past times, as its remains in the rocks show, it inhabited Europe and other countries. There are two other rare fishes related to the ceratodus, one of which, the lepidosiren, has been discovered only in the Amazon, while the other, the protopterus, is not known outside of tropical Africa.

The special interest in these fishes arises from the fact that they possess lungs as well as gills, and consequently appear to represent an intermediate condition of life between the fish and the amphibian. They are sometimes described as one of the "missing links" in zoological history.

The ceratodus enjoys the distinction of having received a name through the discovery of the fossil remains of its ancestors, before it was known that any representatives of its race were still living upon the earth.

This strange animal is said to deposit its eggs upon weeds growing in the Burnett and Mary rivers in Queensland, and Professor W. Baldwin Spencer, of Victoria, made a long journey in Queensland in search of some of these eggs. Though he did not find them, he did learn some interesting facts about the animal.

It is a big fish, he says, sometimes attaining a length of six feet or more, and it is not good for food, as has been reported. Although it is furnished with a lung for breathing, it does not voluntarily leave the water, and if it gets out of the water it is practically helpless. In a few hours after being removed from the river it perishes unless it is kept damp. The great use of its lung seems to be to enable the ceratodus to live by breathing air without quitting the water entirely.—Youth's Companion.

The One Cent Coin.

Few of the present generation have any knowledge how the present one cent piece came into circulation. Prior to the civil war the coin which represented one cent weighed exactly half an ounce. There were plenty in circulation for the population of the time, but when the war broke out it seemed as if coins of all denominations had been swallowed up. Tokens of various kinds were made first of cardboard, then of metal.

A small coin about the size of the present one cent piece was produced, having upon it various devices, such as "Not one cent," "Good enough for defense," "Our country forever." From 600 to 1,000 varieties of these tokens were made and issued. As they were taken to represent a cent by everybody, those who had copper enough on hand and could make or procure molds or dies, realized a good profit from the making and issuing of these tokens. The size and weight were convenient, and the United States government saw that the people were better pleased with the smaller piece, although comparatively valueless, than with the old half ounce coin.

As the object was to keep the subsidary coins in the country, and as the people were content to use the smaller pieces, the experiment was tried in the issue of the "turkey buzzard" mixed nickel cent. They were larger, thicker and heavier than the present cent, and did not please as well as the tokens had pleased. After trying two or three issues of the nickel coin, some with the flying eagle and other's with the Indian's head, the United States government decided upon the present style of coin.—Yankee Blade.

A POPULAR ACTORr

A popular American actor recently wrote from Toronto to the proprietors of Bronchial Syrup, informing them of the fact that he had occasion during the last five years to test a number of cough remedies for sore throat, irritation of the tonsils and bronchial affections; and has now come to the conclusion that the Harvard Bronchial Syrup is the most effective and reliable on this continent.

This gentleman says that in his travels from place to place he always carries a supply with him for any emergency, and has always met with quick relief when the Harvard was used.

Our Canadian people cannot have a better friend during the changeable weather of autumn and winter. Colds are taken quickly even when great care is exercised. These colds should be banished as soon as they appear, as there is great danger in neglect. One twenty-five cent bottle will frequently banish several attacks.

IMPERIAL FEDERATION.

The Subject Discussed From Another Point of View—Mr. Gosnell's Opinions.

Advantages of the Scheme Set Forth — Commercial Aspect of the Question.

To the Editor:—The amount of attention recently devoted in your columns to Imperial Federation and the fact that for a number of years I have been more or less actively interested in it are my apologies for writing to you on the subject.

"Inter Nos," in a remarkable series of letters—remarkable for diffusiveness of treatment and the heroic manner in which he vanquished many men of straw of his own creation—has come to a conclusion, that in point of importance may aptly be compared to the mouse which the mountain labored to bring forth. Imperial Federation is a dream, but Imperial colonization is the only solution of the great problem of perpetuity with which the British Empire is confronted!

It would be unprofitable and a weariness of the flesh and spirit to review all that this writer has told us, which, as an effort at political economy may be characterized as an ingenuous misunderstanding of the whole subject. However, by way of illustration of this statement, one or two of what—with apologies—may be referred to as arguments, will be singled out.

The idea is ridiculed of colonial representatives sitting in the Imperial Parliament at Westminster, with the privilege only of speaking and voting on matters affecting their own interests. That would appear as a valid objection if any responsible person had made such a proposal, but a hybrid assembly of that nature has never been contemplated, except, perhaps, in Gladstone's Home Rule bill, which Parnell himself subsequently admitted to Mr. Cecil Rhodes to be impracticable. Any outline of complete federation, with respectable parentage, has had in view a scheme of local self-government, such as we enjoy in Canada, to be applied to England, Ireland and Scotland, as well as other parts of the Empire, an Imperial Council or Assembly, representing all the lesser federacies, in which only affairs of general Imperial concern, etc., etc., would be dealt with, to be over all. Where that body would sit, whether in Westminster or not, would be dictated by preponderance of sentiment or considerations of expediency. A great deal of stress, and rightly too, has been placed on the commercial aspect of union, but any system of federation to be permanent must have a basis of political cohesion. It must be an organic whole, comprehensive as the limits of the Empire itself and approximately uniform. Imperial co operation implies also an Imperial constitution.

Again, Canada is upbraided for having shut out the British manufacturer by her protective policy—a favorite objection, but more common and convenient than patent,—and we are advised to open our markets to great Britain as an earnest of our desire for closer relations; but "Inter Nos" forgets—it is only charitable to assume that it is forgetfulness on his part—that Great Britain herself in the "favored nation" clause of her treaties has placed the only barrier in the way to Canada giving the Mother Country a preference in trade matters.

The proposal to assess the colonies with a fair proportion of the expenditure for defence of the empire is poohphooed. It is contended that in the case of Canada she has built a transcontinental railway and created great waterways, which are useful to and being used by Great Britain. Therefore it is contended that Canada has done her share towards defence of the empire. It is true that these are useful to Great Britain on the condition that Canada remains an integral part of the empire, but Canada undertook these great enterprises as a national necessity of political existence, and not with any view to Great Britain's interests; and any privileges or advantages which Great Britain enjoys, as a result, in the way of the conveyance of commerce, mails, troops, etc., she pays well for in subsidies. The very troops, employed for our own protection, that pass backwards and forwards on the C.P.R. have their fares paid, and handsamely, too—but not by Canada.

Considered in the above connection "Inter Nos's" scheme of imparial colonization is worthy of its brilliant progenitor. It is highly probable that British statesmen will go into ecstacies over a project to expend vast sums of money in order to send their own people out of the country into the colonies, where, besides having to defend them, said colonists would forever cease to contribute to the British exchequer. This is the most unique method of strengthening an empire ever yet proposed.

Following in this train of thought, we are told that in order to induce colonists to settle they must have a cheap country to live in. In other words, Canada to get immigrants must adopt free trade. Unfortunately for this theory experience is opposed to it. The United States for many years has been and still is the Mecca of all the ambitious paupers of Europe, as well as of its enterprising tradesmen and capitalists, and the United States is, from a free trade point of view, the dearest country in the world to live in.

But it is useless to pursue all these vagaries of political opinion. When men now exclaim: "Imperial Federation is impracticable; a dream," they simply echo convenient phraseology in parrot-like tones. Men like Lord Rosebery, Sir Charles Tupper, Sir Oliver Mowat and hundreds of other shrewd, practical statesmen of all political shades of opinion, do not waste their time in discussing visions and impracticabilities.

The term "Imperial Federation" is a bugaboo to many. They call it impracticable and a "fad" without really knowing what it is intended to imply. It is simply a generic term which stands in the minds of its promoters for the unity of the British Empire in some more consolidated and less anomalous form than at present, but which so far has not become definitely and distinctly outlined. Ideas are much clearer now than formerly as to what it can or can not be, and as Mr. Parkin has told us the general desire and the absolute necessity for a more concrete form of general Imperial government will evolve some constitution adapted to the peculiar genius of the Anglo-Saxon race and the people living under the ægis of the British flag.

The question of our future is one that is forcing itself upon the empire. The relations of the various parts are so anomalous as to enable us to describe the whole mass as political nebulæ, liable at any time to be scattered into independent fragments. It is bound together wholly by sentiment, which of late has been very uncertain in its manifestations. It is no use saying that federation is a matter of the future, one like Tennyson's dream of the political kinship of the world; it is the question of the hour. We have to choose between an Imperial union or an independent existence or a political union with the United States. Political and commercial conditions are heading us that way and we cannot help ourselves. Otherwise every newspaper and magazine in the land would not be full of and political discussion permeated with it.

The Americans are a very practical people and solved the problem once for themselves. They see things plainer than we do. Dr. Albert Shaw, the American editor of the Review of Reviews, in the Contemporary Review for September discussing the question says: "I confess that if I were an Englishman I should not take much pride in the so-called 'Empire' as it now exists, and I am very sure that any American if he were a British subject in any part of the Empire outside of the United Kingdom, would think that the huge affair was on very pernicious lines. Your colonial and Imperial system, measured by its easy possibilities, has been the most colossal of failures. * * *

"The accident of territorial contiguity, let it be observed, is not the cement that binds together the parts of the American Republic. The cement is a product arising out of the intense affinities of (1) perfect Home Rule in all matters of local concern, (2) perfect and indissoluble union in affairs of general or imperial concern; and (3) a universality of citizenship. * * *

"If Americans were to take the contract for re-organizing your British Empire they would lose no time in telegraphing for the strong men of both Canadian parties; for Mr. Rhodes, Mr. Hofmeyr and the other empire builders of South Africa; for the experienced and staunch politicians of the Australian States, and for Englishmen everywhere, who were actually engaged in maintaining British supremacy. After a conference they would draw up certain tentative proposals and call an Imperial convention to adopt a final scheme of federation. This scheme should provide for a true Imperial Parliament to take over from the existing local parliaments of the United Kingdom all Imperial business. It would place the navy, the army and the postal service upon an Imperial basis. It would establish absolute free trade between all parts of the Empire, although it might allow certain parts to maintain differential tariffs against non-British countries. * * *

"A unified Imperial economic system might soon lead to a reciprocity treaty between the two English-speaking federations that would hasten the advent of the universal Free Trade that all intelligent Protectionists anticipate and desire."

This, remarks an editor, is but the latest repetition of the Cassandra-like prediction, "we must federate or perish."

Mr. Parkin, when in British Columbia, spoke strongly and eloquently, but from the British rather than the colonial standpoint. This was quite natural from his several years' experience in educating Old Country opinion, in which he had the objections of the English people to meet. The safety and permanency of the Empire were the features of his propaganda there, and that is a powerful lever in Great Britain. But there is a Canadian standpoint as well. Apart from the question of differential tariffs, concerning which there is an honest difference of opinion among Imperial Federationists as to whether Great Britain would or should adopt such a policy, but which it is obvious would be of tremendous advantage to the colonies, there is still another and a greater desideratum for Canada, and especially for British Columbia, both politically and commercially. In the new order of things, as Mr. Parkin pointed out, Canada becomes the keystone of the empire, strategically considered. Commercially her strength is becoming equally great. Should Canada become independent, or annexed to the United States, she becomes, as the case may be, a neutral or an alien power. Her importance as the base of an all-British trade route around the world is lost, and the subsidies for fast Atlantic, Pacific and Australian steamship lines and Pacific cables go with it. These great enterprises, which depend upon liberal subsidies for their successful carrying out, and which are intended to divert the bulk of British trade through Canada, are subsidized by Great Britain to achieve something no longer possible the day Canada hauls down the old flag, and that day our trans-continental railways will no longer be ocean carriers and our ocean ports will be side-tracked by the United States. There is vastly more than sentiment in it for Canada.

The late Hon. John Robson in discussing the reciprocity resolutions last session gave expression to a great truth in a wonderfully trite form, when he remarked that while it was true that trade followed the flag, it was also true that the flag followed trade. And now while we have for years been discussing the practic ability of a greater and a wider federation, the problem has been working itself out. The subsidizing and establishment of these new lines of trade, fast Atlantic steamers, a railway from ocean to ocean, steamship lines to the Orient and Australia, Pacific cables and all that, when fully accomplished, mean a commercial bond stronger even than that of political union. We will wake up some day to find that the merchants and transportation managers have worked it all out while politicians dreamed about it and wrangled over it, and that the vast and closely knit framework of British commerce will require only a constitutional habiliment to have realized the complete structure of Imperial Federation. R. E. Gosnell.

Little Homer's Slate.

After dear old grandma died,
Hunting through an oken chest
In the attic we espied
What repaid our childish quest;
'Twas a homely little slate,
Seemingly of ancient date.

On its quaint and battered face
Was the picture of a cart
Drawn with all that awkward grace
Which betokens childish art;
But what meant this legend, pray:
"Homer drew this yesterday?"

Mother recollected then
What the years were fain to hide,
She was but a baby when
Little Homer lived and died;
Forty years, so mother said,
Little Homer had been dead.

This one secret through those years
Grandma kept from all apart,
Hallowed by her lonely tears
And the breaking of her heart;
While each year that sped away
Seemed to her but yesterday.

So the homely little slate
Grandma's baby's fingers pressed,
To a memory consecrate,
Lieth in the oaken chest,
Where, unwilling we should know,
Grandma put it years ago.
—Eugene Field, in Chicago News-Record.

Persian Punishments For Theft.

In Persia the first time a man is caught in the act of stealing he is "bastinadoed" (beaten on the soles of the feet with an iron rod) and made to sign paper declaring that that will be his last offence. If he forgets this when the soles of his feet quit burning and tries it again, the second offence calls for the amputation of his right hand. If he is still obdurate and goes it left-handed the third and of course last resort is decapitation.

Maintain the Flow of Milk.

FIGHTING THE COALMEN.

The Struggle Grows Bitter at Vancouver—Sexsmith's Position

VANCOUVER, Nov. 28.—The Northern Shipping Company is seeking incorporation to carry on general steamboating, with fishing and dealing in produce if convenient.

The coal combine was referred to in the pulpits last evening. Several of the largest consumers are clubbing together to get coal in large lots from the Union mines, Comox, or from Seattle.

The City Council meets this afternoon that the aldermen may attend the reception on the Japanese warship Kongo to-night.

The public works done in wards one and two, Richmond municipality, by McLean Bros., exceed the amount of the appropriation for these wards by about $3000. They now sue the municipality for that sum. The council refuses to pay, as they claim Reeve Sexsmith alone is responsible for having the extra work done.

The Italian, accused of criminal assault, was fined $25 this morning for common assault.

Angus Fraser, section foreman on the C.P.R. at Cherry Creek, was found dead in bed at the Oriental House on Sunday morning. Heart disease was the cause.

TO BEAT EIFFEL'S TOWER.

An English Structure That is to Be 1200 Feet in Height.

New York Sun.]

The foundations of Sir Edward Watkin's new tower of London have been completed. They occupy four acres in a pleasure park of 120 acres between Willesden and Harrow. They consist of immense blocks of concrete. The nature of the ground where the tower is to be constructed is so sloping and uneven that while one set of footings appear about five feet above the surface and here is seven feet below, a third five feet below and the fourth at least 20 feet below the surface. These foundations go down nearly 20 feet and should be capable of bearing any weight that could be placed upon them. They have cost between $25,000 and $30,000.

Some idea of the magnitude of the whole undertaking may be gathered from the statement that the Eiffel tower, which is to be so far surpassed in size by the English tower, was made of 7500 tons of steel and iron, consisting of 12,000 specially designed pieces, fastened together with 2,500,000 rivets. The English tower is to be 150 feet higher than the French wonder, and the latter can be seen at a distance of 75 miles. The English structure will also be on higher ground. On the top of the English tower there will be an observatory and rooms for scientific experiments, which are likely to be of great value.

The plan provides for a large landing stage that will accommodate 20,000 people. This landing stage will contain a large dancing room and several shops, and will have refreshment bars all round. Underneath will be rooms for stores and other purposes, while at the top will be a number of small rooms. Half way up will be a landing stage, and arrangements have been made in the plans for lifting to the top of the tower double the number of people that M. Eiffel can carry up his structure. It is estimated that the tower can be constructed in twelve months up to the first floor, and that the whole can be completed in eighteen months.

Persons who have seen other tall buildings of the world may gain some conception of the height of Sir Edward's 1200-foot tower by bearing in mind that Notre Dame in Paris is but 217 feet high; St. Peter's, Rome, 433 feet; the Washington monument 554 feet, the Great Pyramid of Egypt 479 feet, Rouen Cathedral 492 feet, Strasburg Cathedral 467 feet, Cologne Cathedral 551 feet, and the Pantheon in Paris 279 feet.

The pleasure grounds round the tower will be the most extensive place of amusement in the world. Advantage has been taken of the River Brent, running through the estate, to make an ornamental lake, covering an area of five acres. This is near the main entrance. In the summer it will be used for boating and in the winter for curling and rinking. At one end of the lake is a picturesque waterfall, by means of which the Brent, after circling several islands, releases itself and pursues a winding course through the park and onward till it joins the water from the Welsh Harp-Hendon, afterwards falling into the Thames at Brentford.

A sufficient quantity of water is forced up hill from the lake by a powerful ram to form a reservoir, which supplies a very large ornamental fountain, similar to that at the Crystal Palace. This fountain has been completed. Close by is a cricket ground of seven acres. The whole area has been leveled, well turfed and efficiently drained. On higher ground workmen are now laying out winter gardens in the large pavilion in which entertainments are to be given. A band stand is also to be provided.

The whole 120 acres will be opened to the public early next spring, although the tower will not be completed until ten or twelve months later.

Zola and the Late Emperor.

M. Zola, in the Figaro, in reply to some of the critics of La Debacle, insists that the Emperor rouged his cheeks at Sedan. The Emperor's friends, he says, have talked as if to have done so would have been humiliating—"the role of a buffoon." On the contrary, this seems to me a great mistake. I find the act superb, worthy of the hero of a Shakespearean play, heightening the figure of Napoleon III. to a tragic melancholy of infinite grandeur." That is a characteristically French exaggeration. We presume M. Zola means that it was noble of the Emperor to take the trouble to conceal from his troops his desperate physical weakness; but even granted that it was a prudent thing not to show a cheek of ghastly pallor, we fail to see that it was heroic.

M. Zola further attacks his critics for being angry with him for stating the whole truth about the war. To do so was, he declares, a duty. France was nearly ruined because she believed in the French trooper "as the conqueror of the world singing as he runs across fallen kingdoms." He resolved to teach his fellow countrymen that war was "a thing too serious, too terrible for us to lie about." "I concealed nothing, I sought to show how a nation like our own, after so many victories, could be so miserably beaten, and I wished also to show out of what depths we had raised ourselves in twenty years, and in what a blood bath a strong people can be regenerated. My profound conviction is that if the falsely patriotic lie begins again . . . we shall again be beaten." That, at least is sound advice.—The Spectator.

Die Afrikareise.

The J. C. Duff opera organization has a reputation for excellence of representation, and the company which inaugurated a two nights' engagement at Boyd's last evening fully sustains it, says the Minneapolis Tribune.

Suppe's "Die Afrikareise" was the work selected, and in its English form as "A Trip to Africa" it provided an admirable entertainment to the large and fashionable audience. One or two solo numbers are melodious to a degree, while in concerted work it is distinctly noteworthy. With a capital staging and dressing, and the conscientious work of a competent company, the opera should enter on a successfully popular career. Miss Helen Bertram is a soprano of known attainments, and is the role of Titania did much to score the success of the work. As Tessa, Miss Villa Knox fairly shared the honors with the leading prima donna, while Miss Helen von Doerhoff in Baccammetta gave a capital bit of comedy work and sang her score so as to show to the full the quality of her flexible contralto. The tenors, Messrs. Bassett and Raffael, were fairly sufficient in their respective roles, Mr. Bassett showing to fine advantage with Miss Bertram in the rose duet, certainly the gem in the book. J. H. Ryley, the inimitable, was as dryly funny as ever and sang his part correctly as usual, which so few comic opera comedians are expected to do. Mr. William Schuster won a world of praise for his admirable rendering of the two numbers written for the Muezzin, the first of which, with the responsive chorus, being as fine a piece of musical composition as Suppe has ever done. This pleasing opera will be heard this evening at the Victoria with full orchestral and scenic accompaniments, a treat no music lover in the city can afford to miss.
